The first branch of this proposition has certainly some support in Metallor, was not very carefully considered, and we have examined it in 7 Wall., 715.

The circumstances under which the act of 1868 was passed were peculiar. On the 5th of February, 1867, Congress prior to 1867. We have already expressed in the Mc ardle of some other of commitment to the civil authority, subject to the control of the court making it.
